

Heart Of Ecstasy - Chordbook

www.vamadevakirtan.com

Welcome to Kirtan!

Thank You for your devotion and love of the divine!

This chord book is a companion book for my Kirtan CD - Heart Of Ecstasy. I hope you'll enjoy playing along in your own devotional practice of Kirtan, and leading these chants in public Kirtan if that is your calling!

The chord arrangements may seem advanced at first, and I have included fingering charts after each chant so you will have a guide to the chord forms or voicings I'm using when I play.

For beginners or if you just want to play with more simple chords you can usually just ignore the advanced chord forms and play the basic chords they are built on. For example, instead of a CMa7 you can drop the Ma7 part and substitute a C Major chord, or instead of a Dm7 substitute a Dm (minor). Also I often play melodious transition chords that are optional. For example, many of the sustain (Sus or Sus4) chords can be skipped playing the previous chord (or next chord) for the full length of the measure.

I'll offer an introduction to the essence or attunement of some of the chants to give a feel of the mood behind the chanting.

Jai Ma, and Happy Chanting!

Vamadeva

Salutations to Hanuman who is the selfless servant of Lord Ram and Sita!

You are the divine incarnation of all that is good and auspicious, Oh Son of the Wind, You take away our suffering and all that is inauspicious, removing it from the root and core of our being so it can never reappear.

Salutations and Victory to Lord Ram and Sita, divine incarnations of Narayan and Narayani, Lord and Goddess of Truth and Dharma.

Madan Mohana is the name of Krishna meaning "more beautiful than the most beautiful". Krishna you are the most attractive source of beauty itself. Your beauty slays demons (Madhu and Keshi). You are all attractive with flowing black hair as you hold the Goddess (Radha-Lakshmi) in your arms. Oh son of Devaki, You, Gopala steal hearts with your beautiful smile. All come running toward you, back home to the source of beauty.

*Hail and Victory Mother Kali and Mother Durga! You are our fierce Mother - tearing away the shackles that bind us lifetime after lifetime.
Yet underneath it all, you remain the still and serene Mother Of Bliss.*

In our deepest soul, when all that can be torn away is gone, all that remains is Ananda-Bliss.

7. In the Still of the Night
